THE INSIDE ON THE NEWLY ELECTED FIA PRESIDENT

If you've ever met Nouzab Fareed, you'll be struck by his easy manner and sense of humour. Characteristics that were most probably developed during his childhood as the son of an English teacher. That he failed all four subjects in year 13 perhaps helped shape his sense of humour, not that it is a laughing matter, but it certainly did not stop him obtaining an MA and an MBA later in life, and taking him to the helm of Fijian Holdings.

Born and brought up in the busy and congested capital of Sri Lanka, Nouzab remembers school as being second to his love of cricket. So much so that after his father, his other role models were all legends of the game.

The youngest of five siblings, Nouzab's early ambitions were a far stretch from his reality now.

"I never wanted to be an Accountant. I was always fascinated by space and I wanted to be an astro-physicist, someone who studies space objects. I fell in love with the subject of Astronomy as a child."

The love still endures today and Nouzab has two large telescopes with which he explores the Fijian night sky.

Educated at Colombo's Asoka Junior School and then Ananda College, probably the largest school in Sri Lanka with over 8500 students, this youngest of five children did not allow the early setback in school results hold him back. His MA Degree from the University of Colombo and MBA from the University of Sri Jayawardanapura are testament.

Nouzab's father was an English teacher and later became a Commissioner for Colombo Municipal Council while his mother stayed at home to manage their home and family. Both of them are from rural areas in Sri Lanka with farming backgrounds.

"My father was a simple humble human, who (because of his devout faith) did not wear coloured clothes for last 40 years of his life."

Of his two older sisters and two older brothers, Nouzab says, "All of them are entrepreneurs and have built their own businesses. They all became grand parents before they reached 50 years; I won't be able to achieve that milestone," he adds with relief.

Nouzab's work history is as interesting as the man himself. He began his work life as a computer instructor then an IT lecturer which he was doing when he met his wife.

THE INSIDE ON THE NEWLY ELECTED FIA PRESIDENT

What followed was a period as a management accountant and a stock broker before becoming Head of Investment Research at a development bank. He has also been a merchant banker doing mergers and acquisitions and was part of a team which started Sri Lanka's first 24-hour commercial bank. Add to the list part-time university lecturer as well as a journalist and you quickly get the picture of this man.

So how did he come to be in Fiji leading one of the country's leading listed companies?

"I was never meant to be on the list, when FHL short-listed candidates in Sri Lanka. At the time, I was a Director for a private merchant bank."

Fiji did not make a good first impression on him however. "When I flew in to Suva from Sydney, first impression was to leave within the shortest possible time. But the FHL Team has made me a member of the family and Fiji grows on you."

"I landed here in 2004 with one boy and Fiji has blessed me with another two. Running a three-boy family is more difficult than running a listed company. My sons all attend Yet Sen School and are excellent chess players and video game experts.

While it's hard to imagine that a seven-day working week which begins before 6am can leave him much spare time, Nouzab manages to walk at least 7km every day. Besides spending as much time as he can with his family, the gourmet foodie is a Rotarian, Toastmaster and a Freemason.

While Nouzab Fareed has no regrets, he is quietly proud of his family and how far they have come from their humble beginnings. He does however wish he was born in the mid-18th century. I will leave you to ask him why.

What are the top three things on his Bucket List? Become a PADI Dive Instructor, learn to play the organ and Climb Mount Kilimanjaro.

When your favourite quote is "Dreams come true for only those who work while they dream," be ready to see Nouzab take the Fijian and Sri Lankan flags to the peak of Mount Kilimanjaro.

JULY SEMINAR WELL-ATTENDED

The FIA's July seminar on Contemporary Issues in Corporate Governance presented by Bruce Sutton was very well attended – in fact a full house. In all 100 people attended; the topic obviously attracting the very diverse group made up of as many non-FIA members as members.

Laisa Vulakoro-Minikin, a board member of the Fiji Performing Rights Association (FPRA) said she found the seminar "very good and informative".

"I have been on the Board of Directors for FPRA now since 2001. There are almost 700 members in our Association of Composers and most of our members are village string bands. This seminar was certainly important for me to attend," she added.

The August seminar will be held on Tuesday 18th, at Tower 11 of the Reserve Bank of Fiji Building. Covering the topic "Managing Corruption – What does it Involve?" will be Ms Siteri Rabici, Manager Corruption Prevention from FICAC. You can book by contacting the FIA Secretariat at fia@connect.com.fj or on 3305807.

The FIA brings you a seminar each month on topical issues affecting the Accountants and Accounting profession in general. It is an excellent avenue for members to clock their CPD hours and also serves as an excellent forum for non-members/non-Accountants to keep abreast of current issues.

MORGAN JOINS COUNCIL

The FIA Council announces the appointment of Murgessan Pillay (more commonly known as Morgan) as the new Council member, replacing the outgoing member, Mr Asit Sen. Morgan took up the appointment in January 2015.
